Kyla Bennett first became involved with Public Employees for Environmental Responsibility (PEER) in the mid-1990s, when she became a whistleblower herself.

Previously, for 10 years, Kyla worked at the United States Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) Region 1 as a wetland permit reviewer, and as the Region's Wetlands Enforcement Coordinator. She also served on her local Conservation Commission for six years.

Kyla's familiarity with science, the law, and the inner workings of state and federal governmental agencies enable her to assist public environmental employees throughout New England. She has a Ph.D. in ecology from the University of Connecticut, and a law degree from Lewis and Clark Law School in Portland, Oregon.
